ABOUT THE UKSTT

UKSTT was formed in 1993 and incorporated the existing UK based members of the ISTT. The aim of the Society is focused on the advancement of the science and practice of Trenchless Technology for the public benefit. These techniques can be more efficient, less disruptive, reduce environmental impact and social costs whilst providing economic alternatives to traditional open cut methods of installation, renewal, or repair.

UKSTT is striving to be the leading voice in the field of Trenchless Technology, advancing the development of these techniques through education, collaboration, and promotion.

Being a member of the UKSTT gives your company access to a sizeable network of experienced professionals active in the field of trenchless technology, as well as providing potentially very lucrative business opportunities via our technical enquiry service, which can be found on our website.

Join the UKSTT to obtain the best exhibition rates.
